The Civil War in Georgia

The Civil War in Georgia

John Inscoe published The Civil War in Georgia last year with UGA Press. It consists of articles on the war and post-war experience as drawn from the on-line New Georgia Encyclopedia, where he serves as editor. John will discuss how we understand the war differently during the Sesquicentennial than we did during the Centennial, how the scholarship on the war has evolved in a variety of new directions since then, and how the content of this collection reflect current areas of interest and interpretation. He will also make the case that Georgia has perhaps the most varied and most pervasive post-war legacies of any southern state, a legacy that extends through much of 20th century and into our own time.

John is University Professor and Albert B. Saye Professor of History at the University of Georgia. He is a North Carolina native, educated at Davidson College and UNC-Chapel Hill. He served as the editor of the Georgia Historical Quarterly for fifteen years and since 2000, has served as editor of The New Georgia Encyclopedia on-line and as Secretary-Treasurer of the Southern Historical Association. His scholarly interests focus on Southern Appalachia, the Civil War, and southern race relations. He is the author or editor of ten books

Come to The Capital City Club - Downtown

Our meetings this year will be held at the Capital City Club - Downtown. Look for information or visit www.capitalcityclub.org for directions.

Those of you who insist on showing up at Ansley Golf Club will find your nametag missing, your dining partners unfamiliar, and the topic somewhat below expectations.

Presidents' Night

As is our custom, we will recognize our Past Presidents at the September meeting. We hope to have a big turnout of former presidents. Richard B. Harwell was our first president in 1949, Jack Melton is our 57th president. See page 3 for the complete list .
