June Program

Sam Thomas, curator of the T.R.R. Cobb House in Athens, will speak on the history of the Cobb House. He will also discuss movement of the Cobb House from Stone Mountain to its current location in Athens.

Thomas Reade Rootes Cobb left an indelible mark on the history of Athens and Georgia. He was a University of Georgia graduate, co-founder of its law school, Confederate Brigadier General, and principal author of the Confederate Constitution. In the army he rose to the rank of Brigadier General and was killed in the Battle of Fredericksburg in 1862 at the age of 39. T.R.R. Cobb was a man of his time, an ardent supporter of states' rights.

After languishing for almost 20 years at Stone Mountain, 70 miles from its original location on Prince Avenue in Athens, the T.R.R. Cobb House was moved home to Athens in 2004. Its new address is only about two blocks from its original site. The house, with its distinctive octagonal wings and historically appropriate colors, has been completely restored to reflect the style of 1860, when T.R.R. Cobb was at the peak of his short-lived career. The house will soon open with a house museum, public spaces and a gift shop.

The evening promises to be most informative on a topic of local interest.

May Meeting

"Ed Bearss gave a riveting presentation on "Chamberlain vs. Gordon: Who Was the Greater Soldier and Statesman?". Articulating the details of each man's military and civic contributions, delivered in typical Ed Bearss manner, Ed left it to the individual listener to draw his own conclusion on who was the greater Soldier-Statesman.

Ed's visit with the Round Table this year was highlighted by a visit to President David Vaughan's home to view his prized tintype collection. We eagerly look forward to Ed's return in the near future.

President's Column

I am truly amazed how fast my term has expired, and would like to express how deeply grateful and honored I am to have served as your President. I hope you enjoyed the variety of programs as much as I enjoyed arranging them.

I would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge the following individuals for their support this past year. First, I would like to thank the entire executive committee for their wisdom and guidance in keeping the Round Table on a steady path. Without your support, I do not think I would have had such a successful year. Thanks to Rick Eiserman for heading up the speaker committee. Rick has already assisted me as well as the next two incoming presidents. A special thanks to Jack Melton for his expertise and knowledge -- we now have a state of the art website. And lastly, Carlton Sturtevant, for his entertainment and unique trivia program which is a highlight at every meeting.

Thank you again for all of your support this year. I hope you and your family have a wonderful summer. I look forward to seeing all of you soon.
